AWIB's second annual Raising the Bar, a forum featuring prominent Asian women in the legal profession. This year, we are focusing on Asian women on the bench, where we will have a frank discussion on the unique paths taken by Asian women in the judiciary. Our esteemed and distinguished panel will discuss the various processes on becoming a judge, the lack of representation of Asian women in the judiciary, and their decision to answer the call of public service. Each of our panelists' stories is a testament of hard work and perseverance resulting in a real contribution to society.
